Message from the patron

Dr. Jared Siso

University of Nairobi Anthropology Students Association (UNASA) is a vibrant student-run professional body whose aim is to Link its members with research and policy industry professionals and to compliment student's classroom theory with important thinking and development trends in the development sector.

The purpose of the organization is to empower all anthropology students with knowledge, application and exposure to the research and policy world as well as promote anthropology as a career and improve the potential of its members as future anthropologists in the local and international arena. The organisation also endeavors to instill diligence, hard work and discipline among members and create a sense of communal and social responsibility thereby providing the industry partners with consistently high qualified graduates.

As the patron of the association, mine is to welcome you all to this wonderful association and to the world of young anthropologists with diverse ideas on that will confront challenges that human beings face in diverse contexts.

Message from The Chairman

Horace Ongili Otiende

It is with great pleasure to serve as the Chairman of the University of Nairobi Anthropology Students Association. I take this chance to say thank you to each and every individual that has been inspired by our work as Anthropologists and has grown the interest to study with us. To the University fraternity, thank you for providing a space and opportunity so that Anthropologists can also feel part of the University. To our esteemed lecturers, we appreciate you for the hard work and commitment towards equipping us with the anthropological knowledge in the learning process. Finally to the Director of the Institute, good job for leading the team. Continue with the good work.

Thank you for choosing to study Anthropology. It cuts across almost if not all disciplines that do apply in the day to day life. OUR WAY OF LIFE. Everyone would want to be associated with their culture and so let's all dedicate us to the study, stick to the plan and in the interest of time, come with a testimony that for sure I went through the study and that why I am who I am. May God bless us all.

Regards.

Horace Ongili Otiende.

About us

We are a student organization representing the academic, social and developmental needs of Anthropology students.

We aim to act as a link between the academic staff, industry and anthropology students through various platforms.

Key Objectives

Promoting and organizing co-curricular activities to facilitate free interaction and exploitation of talents among anthropology students.

Promoting intercultural exchanges to understand and appreciate other people's way of life.

Collaborating with other organizations whose objectives and aims are akin to those in helping disseminate information on social problems to anthropology students.
